Eruption of Vesuvius.

A correspondent of the London Times writing from Naples, under date of Nov. 20th, says:

NAPLES, Nov. 20.—As yet I have done scarcely more than note the fact of the eruption of Vesuvius, but so much has it increased since last Wednesday, and so marvelously beautiful is the spectacle, that it merits a more detailed report. Unlike those terrific displays which we have had at times, and which cease with one great effort, this is a large eruption, increasing ever in force and beauty, and promising a duration of many weeks, if not for some months. If so—and it is the opinion of those most experienced in these matters—all the world may see it as soon as the groundless fears as to the state of Naples have vanished. For the first one or two nights, the mountain was modest enough in its demonstrations—tongues of fire shot up to announce its internal agitation, and a thin stream of lava trickled down behind in the direction of Ottajano, which lies on the southeast side of Vesuvius. Some friends who went up there early gave a vague idea of the scene, and spoke of eight or ten new craters, being no more than so many fissures opened by the explosive force of the mountain, and which change in number and character from day to day. For the last two or three nights, however, the scene has been as grand as can well be conceived; but before giving details, let me describe the actual appearance of the mountain. Since December, 1861, it has been almost quiescent, with the exception of one or two sulky and uncertain puffs, and our clear blue atmosphere has ceased to be marked with the spiral columns of smoke. On the very summit has gaped the huge crater, measuring nearly 700 feet in circumference, around which even children might have played, being careful to avoid certain sulphurous exhalations which were emitted at intervals. In the last two years a cone has been formed by the matter ejected from this sulphurous hole; we could scarcely see its head above the walls of the large crater, but within the last week, like some presumptuous stripling, it has shot up above its venerable parent, and this it is which has been fuming and sputtering, and storming with all the arrogant impatience of youth since last Wednesday. It has sent forth an immense quantity of lava, converting the surrounding crater into a lake of fire. At first the high circling walls kept it within bounds, but gradually it has risen and risen until it is now flowing down in several directions where the abrupt and irregular wall admits of a passage. The result has shown that it is lower in the direction of Ottajano, on the southeast, and those who do not care to make the ascent may have a glorious view of it from Sorrento. Still there is nothing like mounting to the top, so let us be off; yet, better still, suppose it to have been done, and that last night. Giovanni Cozzolini was our last guide, who, by virtue of having accompanied Humboldt and many of the scientific and literary men of the age, expects his own name to be enrolled in literary annals. He is, however, a very safe and intelligent guide. There was no incident to mark until we got to the foot of the main cone, when we heard the thunder of the mountain and felt the shocks as of an earthquake at every effort made to disgorge the liquid fire. Ascending by the usual road, we were compelled, on approaching the summit, to skirt a little round to the south east, for two reasons—first, to get on the blind side of the wind, which might have brought down upon us an inconvenient shower of stones; and secondly, to obtain a better view of the main stream, which was fed, not only by the great crater, but by another orifice opened outside, about twenty feet in diameter. From this spot the stream of living fire, full twenty to thirty feet in width, poured down to the bottom of the mountain rapidly where it met no obstacles, and where it did struggle strugglingly until it carried everything before it. To the edge of the crater it was impossible to approach; the heat was scorching, and what would have been the consequence had the lava boiled over and came down upon us? It was difficult, therefore, to form any fair estimate of its size, but one might have supposed that it was not over seventy feet in diameter. It was not a moment, however, for figures, when nature was exhibiting her power in one of its grandest forms. There was a roar and a shock, and then shot forth flames and stone full 1,000 feet in hight, at intervals of from one to five seconds, according to the watch of one of the party. These tremendous convulsions were repeated, and then came the descending shower, composed of stones of various sizes, some certainly half a ton in weight, judging by the bulk. We could mark their course by the eye as long as they retained their red heat, but on approaching the earth they blackened, and then the ear alone could tell what was spotting and pitting the earth around. By the same person who had already acted as a calculator it was stated that the descent occupied five seconds—much in excess, I should imagine, of the actual time. Precision, of course, was impossible in the excitement of such a scene, and if we say 1,000 feet was the height attained we shall not be wide of the mark. It was a nervous proximity to danger on which to stand, as the whole party soon decamped, and got back to Naples shortly after midnight, awe-struck by a scene which never can be forgotten. Yet, without the fatigue of an ascent, any one can from the city enjoy a spectacle of marvelous beauty, only diminished in proportion as compared with that which I have just described. There is no sound, but there are those everlasting flames, across the centre of which there is sometimes drawn a swathe of dark clouds, giving their summits the appearance of greater hight; and the sky is glazing with a deep red color; and mighty stones, reduced by distance, are falling like myriads of stars on the summit of the mountain, the foot of which is wrapped in darkness. What a gorgeous scene, and how much more gorgeous it promises to be!

REBELS AT WORK IN ALABAMA.—The following is a dispatch from Montgomery to the Chicago Tribune, dated Dec. 5th:

The rebel Democratic party held a meeting tonight, at Estelle Hall, to protest against the constitution as adopted by the convention. The ex-rebel General Clinton presided, and Forsythe, the rebel editor from Mobile, and various others, made speeches. Two of the members of the convention, who signed the protest to-day appeared upon the stand and gave in their adhesion to the rebel party, and, as I have all along predicted, these gentlemen declared they would oppose the constitution before the people.

J. H. Speed and G. W. Graves spoke violently, the latter declaring that he would resist the new constitution by force of arms. Clanton said he went into the rebellion with his eyes open, and had no apologies to offer for it. Both Speed and Graves were officers in the rebel army.

A fellow named Ramsey, who said he was from New York, also spoke. He told the meeting that the rebel cause was a good one, and if they had fought under the United States flag they would have succeeded.

At the close of the meeting resolutions were passed denouncing the new constitution and calling upon the Democrats throughout the State to defeat that instrument. The negroes were told if they voted for the new constitution they would be held by the rebels as public enemies.

The inflammatory speeches roused the wildest passions in the breasts of the rebels present, and the yells, screams and howls would have done honor to pandemonium.

The rebels are organizing for an active campaign to defeat the constitution. The leading Democratic organ, the Mail, in an article published this morning, advises a wholesale proscription of the negroes who vote at the election, and the advice will no doubt be followed.

The Union members of the convention will meet to-morrow to sign the constitution, and at night there will be a grand mass ratification meeting in the Capitol grounds. A glorious time is expected. The democrats will also hold another meeting, to be addressed by ex-rebel Governor Winston.

The Archduke Albert, conqueror of Custozza, is about to marry the Princess Frederica, eldest daughter of the ex King of Hanover. His Highness is aged fifty and the bride nineteen. The Archduke has already been married to the Princess Hildegarde, daughter of King Louis I. of Bavaria, by whom he had two daughters—the Archduchess Maria Theresa, married to Duke Philip of Wurtemburg, and the Archduchess Mathilda, who was recently burnt to death when betrothed to Prince Humbert.

THE PACIFIC.—The Pacific, the organ of the Congregationalists, appeared in double size and new dress on the 2d inst. It is very much improved and richly deserves a liberal patronage.

The Superior Race.

Although the whites of the South number nearly two to one of the freedmen, Johnson says, and his imitators repeat the story, that the former are under "negro domination." "Although," says the Sacramento Union "the colored race has been considered by them scarcely human, and believed to be incapable of ever existing without their care and oversight, they now assert that it is ruling over the superior race." The Union continues:

Thousands of times we have been informed that the rebel party "includes all the statesmanship, intelligence and virtue of the South;" yet all at once they confess themselves incapable of controlling enough even of their own race to prevent the South being ruled by a third of its population, composed of blacks who are ignorant and inexperienced in political wiles. Truly, for such a superior race, the rebel party in the South seems to be in a very bad way. Our Secretary, but, who has constituted himself their special attorney, can find no other plank for his platform but the one with which he proposes to rush to the front. He declares that they "are now groaning under the most frightful, ignoble and cruel bondage ever imposed upon a free people." He could not have selected from all the lexicon of epithets. His could not have called from all the philippics a sentence expressing more of or more suffering. Does it mean anything, or is it merely a rhetorical sweeper to his [illegible] whip? The poor rebels "are groaning." Are they much hurt; and if so, how and where? They "are under bonds," etc. To whom? A Virginia farmer says they have the negroes entirely in their power as a man has a silken thread in his hand, which he can crush or let go. Their bondage is "frightful;" that implies sudden fear of destruction. It is "ignoble;" as though the late masters had been set to work without wages for their late slaves. It is "revolting" in one of the deeper crimes of the slave system had been reinvited upon its upholders. Did Cassius, or any of his kidney, ever expend such adjectives as these upon slavery while? Yet he [illegible] soberly declares the superior race of the South to be actually suffering in such straits. Such expressions ought to mean much, or they can mean nothing. In this case they revert upon the author with a terrible accusation of the [illegible] My count of the feeling the truth. The bondage described is [illegible] age at all. Nowhere in the South has any rebel been unjustly or illegally hindered in the prosecution of legitimate business. No one has been punished for his treason. Only a few outlaws have been shut out from the polls, and that not permanently. They have had free access to civil Courts, and the laws have been administered to them as to others. There have been no restrictions made, even in regard to [illegible] tions at all between whites and blacks. That is where the trouble lies. It is not taking away rights from the whites, but it is giving rights to the blacks which constitute this "frightful," "ignoble and revolting bondage." It is not having yet under foot the negroes, but it is for the rebels to put others under their feet which makes up the [illegible] of these rebels' misery. Although [illegible] to be the superior race, abundantly able to take care of themselves, and professing to despise the [illegible] of the blacks, they are "groaning" [illegible] give the latter a chance to [illegible] Numbering two to one, arrogant of superiority, possessing nearly all the property, and all the intelligence, they think to [illegible] such talk as this into depriving the [illegible] of every bulwark against it if the pride and [illegible] and letting them swing the whip again as of old. They will certainly be content with nothing but the mastery; anything else to them is nothing. Against this ugly spirit and its [illegible] to rule, we must array in solid phalanx the common sense, the generality, the justice, the [illegible] feeling of the loyal people.

The Tenure of Office Law.

[From the [illegible]]

The most ill-natured snarl in Mr. Johnson's message is that evoked by the [illegible] Tenure of Office bill, enacted into law by the last Congress. Couple with it are his [illegible] over the corruption of his office holders and the frauds which, through their agency, are practiced upon the revenue. The two matters are [illegible] joined, and when we tell our readers that a large share of the frauds by which the Treasury [illegible] are due to the fact that the President, when he had the power, did not [illegible] new hundred and eighty collectors, and one hundred and seventy-three assessors, most of whom were men of tried integrity, and put his own [illegible] and "pollcy" worshippers in their stead, most of whom, as might have been expected, have been unfaithful to their trusts, they will see that they ought not to be put asunder.

Mr. Rollins, the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, gave it as his opinion, [illegible] that the main difficulties in the way of a [illegible] collection of government dues, was to be charged to the officials whom the President has put into office in the place of better men. He said that until the official material could be changed, nothing better could be hoped for. Instead of blaming Congress for its action in holding Mr. Johnson's hands, we ought rather to tax the memory thereof with gross culpability in not doing their duty in that regard before. The truth is, that the Tenure of Office bill is no new matter. It [illegible] always to have been the law of the land. And now, if the Republican law-makers who gave it to the country will only round out and complete their action by passing Mr. Johnson's bill, which establishes a test of the fitness of men nominated for official place, we shall owe them a system worth more to the country than all the Andy Johnsons who ever lived. To save the country the President will be compelled to try some other theme. The people will hold him responsible for filling the revenue offices with men who assuage the wounds of reputation for supporting "my policy," by sticking from the public revenues.

THE ARROGANCE OF THE PAPAL GOVERNMENT. —A letter to the London Times has the following:

The revived arrogance and intolerance of the Roman Priest Government are manifested in various ways. Cardinal Andrea has received warning that if he does not return to Rome within a given time he will be deprived of his cardinal's hat and reduced to the rank of a bishop in partibus. By a private letter from Rome I to-day learn that the palace of the Cesarini Sforza has been taken possession of by the Papal Government and turned into a hospital.

The case is the more flagrant, and the outrage more gross, because the place was being fitted up and embellished for the reception of a member of the family who is about to marry a daughter of the great Roman house of Colonna. But the Cesarini Sforza family is tainted with Liberalism, and one of the sons is, or was, aid-de-camp to the King of Italy. "Since the return of the Pope," says a letter from Rome in the Corriere delle Marche, the "Papal Government not only persecutes its subjects for political causes, but is insolent to everybody," and the letter refers to the perquisition in the house of the English Charge d'Affairs, which had the same result as most of the others made, nothing being found which could in the smallest degree compromise Mr. Russell. This domiciliary visit is a piece of wanton insolence, which it is here supposed the British Government will in some way resent. Mr. Russell has now been upward of ten years in Rome, and although his mission is by a fiction considered non-official it has been, de facto, fully recognized by the Pope, and he has invariably held the position of a member of the diplomatic corps accredited to the Vatical. He has been on the best terms with Cardinal Antonelli, and in the habit of frequent intercourse with him, while it is well known that Pius IX. always willingly and kindly receives him.

THE DIFFERENCE.—A Chinawoman died suddenly at Nevada, and as some of her countrymen had been quarreling about her, it is supposed that she was poisoned. The countrymen were arrested, and a post mortem examination will be had to see if she was poisoned. The Grass Valley Union says American men kill one another about a woman, but the Chinamen remove all cause of quarreling by killing the woman.

OLD ELM.—An old elm tree at Hampden, Ohio, furnished 7,000 feet of inch boards, clear stuff. The tree was six feet ten inches in diameter, and weighed 60,000 pounds. The concentric circles, which are said to indicate one year each, numbered 792. It was a sapling when William the Conqueror died, and a 400 year old when Columbus discovered America.

Paying in Shinplasters.

Upon this subject heretofore, we have [illegible] that the payment of the debt in greenbacks, [illegible] to the plan proposed in certain quarters, is not really to be paying it, but only changing the form. A little reflection must convince every [illegible] of this statement.

[illegible] are the greenbacks to be paid or redeemed? This [illegible] the people's promise to pay. It is an [illegible] part of the public debt as the five-twenty [illegible] Suppose we pay the debt [illegible] works—we must in that event pay it [illegible] at a future time; for the currency must be [illegible] time or other, be subject to pokes and [illegible] which will cost the [illegible] than to pay up the debt by [illegible] that they do not bear interest, and as [illegible] (or supposed to be stated), it is clear [illegible] that when paid in [illegible] is not paid [illegible] The prompt result of the transaction is [illegible] part of the public debt as the five-twenty [illegible] Suppose we pay the debt [illegible] works—we must in that event pay it [illegible] at a future time; for the currency must be [illegible] time or other, be subject to pokes and [illegible] which will cost the [illegible] than to pay up the debt by [illegible] that they do not bear interest, and as [illegible] (or supposed to be stated), it is clear [illegible] that when paid in greenbacks

NAVIGATION OF THE UPPER WILLAMETTE.—A dispatch of last evening, from Salem, says: "Steamer Enterprise arrived here this evening from Corvallis, reports river low, with [illegible]-able running ice. She will make no more trips until the ice breaks up."

VANCOUVER ITEMS.—We clip from the Register of Saturday, the following items We are glad to see that our old townsman and whilom Auditor, P. A'Hern, Esq., (who has been dangerously ill) is sufficiently convalescent to be around again. We regret to learn that Mr. Lewis Love has lost eight hundred bushels of apples by frost. We learn from Wm. Bratton, mail carrier to Lewis river, that the ice in the bank of that stream is frozen over quite firm enough to bear his weight while the north fork is comparatively clear of ice. G. Tooley had a cow crushed to death, last week by the falling of a tree. Mr. John Maney, of this town, has taken the lead in putting up ice this winter. He has several tons snugly stowed away in the cellar of his shop already. Why his example is not generally imitated by those having cellars, we know not, it seems to us that it would pay. And a public sale of lots in the city cemetery will be held in the Council room, on Wednesday January 22d, 1868, at one o'clock P. M. The sale will be to the highest bidder for the first choice of lots, and then for the second choice, and so on until the close of the sale, and the purchaser will be required to indicate his choice immediately upon the sale to him. Payment to be made at the time of sale in currency. No lot will be sold for less than ten dollars, and after the sale any lot or remaining unsold will be subject to private sale at a uniform price of ten dollars per lot or 12 by 32 feet. Any citizen having actual necessity for a lot prior to the day of sale may select an unsold lot for fifteen dollars, or an inside lot for ten dollars. Mrs. Fanny Cochran, our attentive Post Mistress, and her assistant, Miss Annie Kelley, conceived the daring idea on Thursday to cross the river on the ice, which they carried into successful execution. Considering that it was a hazardous undertaking for many, women should no longer rest under the imputation of being cowardly.

ANOTHER VERSION.—A correspondent at Salem gives us the following version of the late "unpleasantness" between Messrs Bush and Clark. Our community is in a fit of laughter over the altercation between Asahel Bush and Samuel A. Clark, and the articles and squibs published in the Record. Bush undertook to cane Clark when a fight, resulting in the demolition of his hat by Bush. The parties were separated, but not until Clark had dealt him some lusty kicks in the abdomen, and captured his cane, which he took into the Record office as a trophy."

Clark publishes in the Record a battle bulletin, in which he claims a decided and glorious victory, and that his antagonist came out second from his "terrible wrath" by the interference of friends.

A THAW COMING.—The weather, yesterday, presented unmistakable symptoms of weakening. The wind wheeled around into a warmer [illegible] and snow fell somewhat diffusively during the latter part of the day and during the evening. The news from Canyonville is to the effect that a smart rain was falling there yesterday morning. None [illegible] of southwest wind tells us rain in this county, now outside that a stubbornly cold wave then prevailing at Canyonville. If so, it may be looked for before very soon—and then, good bye to skating, to Winter and winter sports, and a welcome to umbrellas and gum boots. After all, the world has jogged along right merrily since Old Winter took the reins, and we shall part with him with some real regrets.

U. S. CIRCUIT COURT—DEADY, JUSTICE.—The following [illegible] were had in the U. S. Circuit Court, yesterday:

John R. Lamb et al. vs L. M. Hart et al.; demurrer to amended bill of complaint argued by consent and submitted.

John R. Lamb et al. vs I. A. Davenport et al.; rule entered for defendant to file answer to amended complaint on Wednesday next.

Adjourned till Thursday morning at ten o'clock.

FOGGY OR THE WEATHER.—The ways of the weather in this Willamette Valley are not exactly past finding out; but to understand them is quite beyond the limited stretch of the "human intellect of man." For instance, while it was [illegible]ing and blustering and [illegible] yesterday, it was calming like a mill at Canyonville and Roseburg, south of us, and at Olympia, north of us. We call that emphatically freakish.

THE PIANO OF MISS KATIE CARR, of Mr. McMillan, of East Portland, [illegible] by Mr. [illegible] and Master Ernest McMillan, yesterday measured the width of the Willamette river at the brick distillery, just below the gas works, and reported that he found the distance from the gravel bank on the east side to the slab wharf on this side, 730 feet. The measurement was taken on the ice.

GOING TO FARM THE SEASON.—We understand that Capt. Baughman has received instructions to force the navigation of the Willamette by breaking up the ice with the st[illegible]. Work at the earliest practicable day. It must, indeed, be a very early day that such a trip can be made, even should the prospective thaw be realized. The ice in all still waters of the river is very [illegible].

FROZEN A QUARTER.—Mr. [illegible], while crossing this river yesterday morning, very unexpectedly found a hole in the ice with a span in it. Upon carefully surveying the premises, he found that he had a personal interest in getting the man out. After a splash and a plunge or two, the unlucky gentleman stood again on firm ice, and—Kelly was himself again.

THE STEAMER LEONIDAS.—Capt. Nash of the [illegible] arrived in this city yesterday for the purpose of procuring [illegible] to finish the cabin and roofing of his steamer. He is confident he can get her ready for regular trips up the Willamette in two or three weeks.

REMOVED.—Messrs. Parrish & Atkinson, real agents and collectors, again, have removed to No. 110 Front St. These gentlemen are active, enterprising agents, and we wish them increased prosperity in their new location.

NOTICE.—All members of the Germania Society are requested to meet at their rooms, at 8 o'clock this evening. By order of the President.

CAPITOL, OLYMPIA, Dec 11th, 1867.

DR. G. W. COOL,
DENTIST.

THOSE WHO DESIRE FIRST-CLASS DENTAL SERVICES might do well to give him a call. He is making a NEW AND IMPROVED VULCANITE PLATE. The nature of his improvement consists in lining the entire concave surface with fine gold, which is only as thin as string and one-third times thinner than the common vulcanite plate. It also prevents the acids of the mouth from coupling the plate, and from turning it black, which is a common occurrence. One half of the common vulcanite plates turn black after being in use a short time, particularly where tobacco is used for smoking. His new style of plate admits of a very fine finish on the concave or palate surface. His office is the only place where such work can be had. The improvement is his own invention, for which he has received. December 26, 1867, a patent from the United States Patent Office. He has been making this style of work for the last two and a half years, and has specimens of the work which can be seen at his office. This work has given satisfaction in every case.

Buried Alive and Shot as a Ghost.

The Cleveland Plain Dealer learns the following extraordinary occurrence that recently took place in a town in Southern Ohio:

An old gentleman named Doloss Winans, became frantically angry with his son because he had lost a large sum of his father's money on a bet. His frenzied feelings soon got the better of him, and he felled his son to the floor with a blow of his fist, and immediately thereafter fell down in a senseless condition. Great excitement in the family ensued. The mother ran screaming for assistance, which was soon forthcoming in the persons of several of the neighbors. Mr. W. was found in an apparently lifeless condition, with blood flowing from his mouth and nose.

A subsequent examination, by a physician, led to the announcement, to him that Mr. Winans had died from the bursting of a blood vessel. Consequently had the vital spark fled that no effort at resuscitation was made, and the remains were prepared for burial as promptly as possible. The funeral of the "deceased" took place the following Wednesday. Mr. W.'s body had only been confined the previous day, up to which time it had been draped in a shroud in the parlor. Notwithstanding the wonderful life look of the skin, and the color of the face, it occurred to no one to suggest a postponement until death was absolutely certain. The funeral was largely attended, and everybody remarked the life-like appearance of the deceased. The "remains" were temporarily placed in one of the cemetery vaults owing to the fact that a tomb commenced for their reception had not yet been completed.

At ten o'clock on Thursday night the village was thrown into great excitement by the report that a ghost had been seen in the cemetery a short time before, and that the old lady who first saw it had been frightened into a fit from which it was doubtful whether she would recover. Thinking that probably the ghost was personated by some scoundrel, who had played the trick several times before, a number of persons armed themselves with shot guns, proceeded to the cemetery, and commenced a cautious inspection—their hearts thumping in their assumed bravado. They had not long to wait, for there flitting among the tombs, was a white object plainly to be seen. With trembling hands they raised their guns, and fired, when—strange fact for a ghost—they saw the white creature fall between a couple of graves. Picking up courage, they cautiously approached the object, and turned a lantern upon it. Their feelings can be better imagined than described when they found that the ghost was the lately deceased Mr. W.

Quick as a portion of the party picked up the bleeding and senseless body of the old gentleman, and started homeward with it, the remainder ran to the vault. There they found Mr. W.'s coffin broken open, and lying upon the floor; and the coffin of a deceased lady, that had been placed in it, likewise thrown down from the shelf, and standing on end, also partly broken open, displaying its ghastly inmate. The vault door, which was a weak affair, had been forced open by the resuscitated man. The party then went to Mr. W.'s house and here they found that he had recovered his senses. His story was briefly told. He had been carried to the cemetery in a trance. Early on Thursday evening consciousness returned to him, and the horrid truth flashed upon his mind that he was buried alive. The next additional struggle was his struggle to get free, and he finally succeeded in bursting open the coffin.

DICKENS' READINGS.—The Boston Advertiser in its notice of Dickens' third reading, says:

There is a method about everything in the remotest degree connected with the readings of Dickens, which must be quite surprising to those who have imagined that a great genius must necessarily be erratic. We have already spoken of the precise way in which the curious reading table is arranged with its carafe of water and its glass half cut full, and with the book placed at the left. Now, this is what happens every night. At precisely three minutes to eight o'clock an assistant comes briskly upon the stage and lights the gas, and then briskly retires. At precisely one minute to eight the handsome, good-humored face of Dolby, the agent, appears at the door of the ante room. Dolby takes a certain number of steps forward—agreed upon beforehand, I suppose—and surveys the audience with a critical eye. Then he withdraws. At one minute and a half past eight the great author appears, clothed with wonderful neatness, and with an inevitable nosegay stuck saucily in his buttonhole. He steps—no, his gait is rather more dignified than that—he advances upon the stage with a stately, Baker Sir Boniface, or Jack Sheppard, book upon the little desk, which it exactly covers, and commences to read. It must be very gratifying to Dickens that he looks down upon almost exactly the same interested faces every night, in almost exactly the same places. We can very easily understand why he is so anxious to have every one of the audience in a certain number of minutes before the time.

SPOTTED TAIL AND HIS WIVES.—The New York Herald, of December 30, says:

Spotted Tail is an aristocrat. Indians in a state of nature at North Platte do declined going to Washington "until peace had been made with the North American Indians." But his real object seems to have been to decline, not diplomatic—for he was perfectly willing and willingness to go to Washington if allowed to take five of his wives with him."

And pray why not? A married man, and we suppose it will be admitted that Spotted Tail is a married man, should surely be allowed to carry his better-halves with him on so distant a journey. Brigham Young comes to New York, do we remember, and it is a matter of gratulation, whether he has two, three or ten of his wives? Besides, perhaps if we ask only forty-four of twenty and five wives 'sealed' to Spotted Tail; and he will still remain unseasonably deprived of his rights.

Most husbands, with railroad fares as they exist at the present time, would not care to go to this expense but perhaps it is at our expense he proposes to travel. If so, that makes another matter of it. We shall decline, in the present state of finances, to approve such wholesale conjugal attachment. There is another consideration worthy of note in this matter; Spotted Tail is not half as fond of peace as he pretends to be, else he never would care to travel—or even to live—with five wives. Let the Government be on its guard!

The fanatical old prophet from Archangel, who in 1834, predicted to the Emperor Nicholas, at St. Petersburg, that he would die within the next twelve months, has repeated the same prophecy to the present Czar. Nicholas, who was a highly superstitious man, waxed very wroth at what the old prophet told him, and sent him to Siberia, but he was pardoned at the accession of Alexander II. The present Czar is reported to have received the sinister prediction with perfect equanimity.

HIRAM SMITH'S
Ophthalmic Panacea!

IN BRINGING THE ABOVE-NAMED NEW REMEDY to the notice of the Public, the Proprietor begs to state a few facts in relation to it, as follows:

It originated in Prussia, where the science of Medicine is so thoroughly taught and practiced, but owing to the poverty of its discoverer its wonderful properties were not known beyond the limited circle of his acquaintance, to which, however, it proved itself absolutely infallible in eradicating diseases from the eyes.

He immigrated to this country, bringing his discovery with him, but seems to have been indifferent to the propriety of giving it general and wide spread circulation, and, as previously in his native country, seemed only desirous of curing those his friends and neighbors.

The present proprietor was one of these neighbors, and for many years was a witness to its wonderful efficacy, and, after ineffectual efforts to persuade the inventor to more widely disseminate the knowledge of its virtues, finally became himself the possessor of the secret of its preparation.

And now, while he does not deny that he hopes and expects to make money by its sale, he must yet lay claim to a desire to benefit his fellows by preventing to them a single unnecessary case of blindness, by placing it within the reach of all, and all experience have failed.

He wishes it to be understood that it will cure all diseases of the eye, whether of recent or long standing, but its greatest power is exhibited when it is applied to old Chronic Cases of long standing, which have resisted every other attempt to cure them, and which have been given up as hopeless and pronounced incurable.

He asks those afflicted in this way to give it a trial, and has confidence in his success that he instructs all his agents TO REFUND THE MONEY IF IT FAILS TO CURE.

It has, within the past year, cured cases of GRANULATED LIDS, INFLAMMATION, &c., of FIVE, SIX, NINE, FIFTEEN and SEVENTEEN YEARS STANDING, evidence of which fact is furnished in the testimony of the following persons, living at and in the neighborhood of Harrisburg, Linn county

ALEXANDER L. WALKER was cured of inflamed eyes, of nine years standing. Had been treated by eminent physicians during all that time without effect.

Mrs. MONTGOMERY, of Harrisburg, had inflamed eyes for over two years. For one year they were so bad that she could not work. Was finally completely cured by the Ophthalmic Panacea.

E. B. MOORE, of the firm of Moore, Garst & Baber, of Harrisburg, had granulated lids for six years.

NATHANIEL BELL, of Clackamas county, had inflamed eyes—a bad case—for over fifteen years.

ROBERT HARVEY and W. D. PORTER, of Harrisburg. JOHN M. HOLLOWAY, of Linn County; G. R. WARD, of Lane County, were all afflicted, more or less severely, with diseased eyes, and were cured by the Ophthalmic Panacea.

All the above named persons have given lengthy testimonials to the facts as above stated, which may be seen at the proprietor's office in Harrisburg.

Prepared by SMITH & RILEY,
Harrisburg, Oregon.
For sale by SMITH & DAVIS, Portland, Oregon.

THE OLYMPIA TRANSCRIPT!

WE, THE UNDERSIGNED, HAVING PURchased the "UNION BOOK & JOB PRINTING OFFICE," of T. F. McElroy, propose to issue a Weekly Newspaper at Olympia, W. T., on or about the 1st of December next, to be called THE OLYMPIA TRANSCRIPT.

The paper will be devoted to the Agricultural, Mechanical, Commercial, Mineral, Moral and Political interests of the whole Territory.

In Politics we shall uphold and sustain the Union Principles of the Nation, at the same time reserving the right to be INDEPENDENT on all subjects, that we may be better able to discuss all matters in their true light, and give credit wherever it is due.

We trust our friends will circulate this prospectus generally, and send us in getting a good list of Subscribers, Advertisements, or Job Work. We also invite correspondence from all sections of the Territory.

THE OLYMPIA TRANSCRIPT will be issued every Saturday, at $3 per annum, in advance.

Hoping to receive a share of public favor, we unfurl our banner to the breeze.

CARD.

DR. BARLOW J. SMITH'S WATER CURE AND Phrenological Institute, 627 Sacramento Street, San Francisco This is the only Regular Water Cure in Francisco, where all curable diseases are treated without drugs. Dr. Smith was the first to establish a water cure on this coast, based upon the theory and practice of the New York Hydropathic College.

We have a truly healthful boarding place for men, women and children, and our prices are moderate.

The Phrenological organs plainly indicate the diseases to which any person, male or female, is predisposed.

Put this card in your hat, and when you come to San Francisco, call on Dr. Smith. He will give you consultation and a phrenological examination in regard to health. It will cost you nothing and may save you months and years of ill health and ruined back."

Dr. Smith gives free lectures to gentlemen every Friday evening, on subjects pertaining to health, at his Phrenological Hall, 627 Sacramento Street.
